Tauris 16159 Staff Impression

Tauris has the kind of build you would expect from a distance runner. He is lean and long-limbed, with narrow shoulders and naturally defined muscles. His features are balanced and easy on the eyes, set within a rectangular face with high cheekbones and a strong jawline. His chin is softly rounded, with a subtle cleft that adds just enough character to make him look distinctive.

His eyes are one of his most noticeable features. They are large, almond-shaped, and slightly wide-set, with a color that shifts between brown and hazel green depending on the light. Dark brows, mostly straight with a gentle arch, frame them cleanly. His nose is straight and well-proportioned, and his lips are full without being overly prominent, with a defined cupid's bow. His teeth are even and white, adding to his handsome appearance.

His skin is fair with cool undertones, smooth and clear, with a light tan from time spent outdoors. Clean-shaven, he has a healthy, natural look. His hair stands out immediately. It is dark brown, nearly black, thick and naturally wavy, with noticeable volume. He comes across as effortlessly put together, just as comfortable in a T-shirt as he is in a suit.

He was born in Russia and grew up in a close-knit, academically focused family, where both of his parents were highly educated professionals. From an early age, he seems to have taken in the idea that intellectual effort and family loyalty go hand in hand. After moving to the United States, he earned a degree in mathematics and computer science, followed by an MBA, both with top academic performance. Along the way, he did well in math competitions and built a career in the technology industry as a product manager.

He sets clear goals for himself, including financial independence, early retirement, and eventually starting his own company, but he also makes room for the things he enjoys. He has completed three marathons and stays active through running, hiking, and fishing, especially salmon fishing during the summer. He studied piano for years and reached a near-professional level, and he has sung in a choir. At the same time, he enjoys working with his hands, including home projects like remodeling, and finds the same satisfaction in building something tangible as he does in solving complex problems.

He is in excellent health, does not smoke or drink, and stays active with regular exercise such as running and swimming. He enjoys animals, especially cats, and likes spending time gardening, a habit that seems to come from his family. His relationships with his family remain important to him, and that mix of intelligence, discipline, and warmth comes through in the way he lives his life.