

Semhar 11060 Staff Impression

Semhar is lean and muscular with broad shoulders. His face is oval with well-proportioned features, high cheekbones, a defined jawline, and a square chin. His deep, warm-toned brown complexion, soft dimples, and three small beauty marks give his easy smile real character. His dark brown eyes sit behind thin, round wire-rim glasses, complemented by naturally arched dark brows, a straight medium-bridge nose with a rounded tip, and a medium-wide mouth with full, defined lips. A neatly trimmed dark beard and connected mustache give him a tidy, masculine look.

He holds a bachelor's degree in exercise and wellness, and a master's degree focused on autism support. As a board-certified behavior analyst, he hopes to open his own practice serving children on the autism spectrum, with an emphasis on building skills that continue to benefit families long after formal services end.

Sports and fitness have been a lifelong passion. Semhar captained his high school basketball team all four years and ran an impressive 4:28 mile in track. He has taught water aerobics and kickboxing, completed an internship in outpatient physical therapy, and developed a genuine appreciation for helping people gain confidence through progress and achievement.

Outside of work, he rarely sits still for long. Hiking, swimming, distance running, cliff jumping, and jet skiing are among his favorite ways to spend a free weekend. He also enjoys stand-up comedy, small live music venues, and can solve a Rubik's Cube in under two minutes. Strong in math and gifted with an exceptional memory, he's often the person who remembers details everyone else has forgotten.

While quiet when first meeting people, Semhar becomes warm, playful, and engaging as he gets comfortable. Friends and family value him as a thoughtful listener whose advice is practical and sincere. Hard work, independence, and family remain central to who he is. Having experienced the rewards of raising his own children, he became a donor to help give other families that same opportunity.