Bowrey is friendly and easygoing. Standing six feet tall, he has broad shoulders and a trim frame. His face is oval with a jawline that is defined toward the chin. His features are defined and well-proportioned with high cheekbones. His hair is worn short on the sides with longer waves on top. Depending on the light, his hair looks anywhere from dirty blonde to light brown. His blue eyes stand out against his fair complexion and are framed by light brown brows with a subtle arch. Light brown facial hair along his chin, upper lip, and jawline adds a bit of contrast. He has a medium-sized nose, medium-full lips, and a smile that is warm and engaging. Small dark earrings and several tattoos add a bit of personality and hint at his creative side.

He sees himself as loyal, independent, persistent, and quick to find humor in everyday situations. While he enjoys keeping things light, he's also someone who takes pride in working hard and seeing things through. He admits he can be stubborn when he's focused on a goal, but that determination has served him well.

After studying electrical technology, Bowrey built a career working with electrical systems, including the planning and installation of fire alarm systems. It's a practical field that suits his problem-solving mindset and preference for hands-on learning. In the future, he'd like to continue expanding his qualifications and move further into system design work using CAD.

Outside of work, Bowrey’s interests cover a wide range of creative and active pursuits. Martial arts have been a significant part of his life, including Kung Fu, Tai Chi, and kickboxing. He enjoys gardening, painting miniatures, building costumes, gaming, playing board games with friends, listening to audiobooks, and learning the violin. Travel has sparked an appreciation for history, food, and experiencing everyday life in different cultures. Family plays a big role in his life, and he hopes to have a spouse and children of his own someday.
