Liavon 13309 Staff Impression

Liavon has an oval-shaped face with full cheeks and pale blue eyes. He wears his ash-toned, light brown hair short and neatly styled. His light olive complexion has a neutral undertone and is clear, with no noticeable freckles. A neatly trimmed beard and mustache frame his jaw and chin, complementing his features without drawing attention away from them. He has a straight nose with a softly rounded tip and medium-full lips. With a stocky build, he has a sturdy look.

Liavon is empathetic, loyal, courageous, and detail-oriented. He enjoys understanding others, helping where he can, and approaching life with patience and persistence. With both undergraduate and graduate engineering degrees, he has built a career in technology. He enjoys solving problems, whether through software, electronics, CAD design, or 3D printing. His curiosity often carries into personal projects as well, especially anything involving electronics, repairs, or creating something useful with his hands.

Outside of work, Liavon enjoys soccer, snowboarding, sprinting, and spending time outdoors. He previously worked as a sound engineer for a band, plays both guitar and drums, and is currently learning trumpet simply because he enjoys its unique sound.

Fluent in Belarusian and Russian, as well as English and Spanish, Liavon appreciates the perspective and experiences that come from travel and different cultures. Looking ahead, he hopes to continue exploring the world, learn more about aviation, and eventually settle somewhere sunny. He hopes to build a happy life, share that happiness with others, and make a positive difference where he can. He sees becoming a donor as one meaningful way to help another family create a future filled with love and opportunity.
